May faces conflict of interest over investments, claim MPs

Today's Edition

THE WEATHER

Scattered showers in northern and western areas. Drier in the southeast. Full forecast, page 57

OFFER

Get 3 months' subscription for the price of 1.

Don't miss the moments that matter

Please note, some sections of The Times are reproduced and licensed for purposes contact Newspaper Licensing Agency at PO Box 101, Tunbridge Wells, Kent, TN4 9SR, telephone 01892 535333, e-mail newslicensing@nla.co.uk. For permission to copy articles or headlines for internal information and other editorial purposes contact Syndication Department, 19 New York Street, London, W1T 5SA, telephone 020-7782 5000. Printed by Newsprinters (Broxbourne) Limited, Great Cambridge Road, Broxbourne, Hertfordshire, EN10 2RS. © TIMES NEWSPAPERS LIMITED, 2017. Published and licensed for official use by the British Government.

FINANZEN

Jill Sherman Media Editor

Pressing ahead with “draconian” laws to force newspapers to join an approved regulator could cost the industry £100 million a year, it was claimed, as press freedom campaigners attacked the The Financial Times and The Guardian called for the legislation to be dropped. The piece appears to have been written by Sir Bradley Lewis, who was a senior Member of the House of Commons Security Intelligence Committee.

The Guardian reported that classiﬁed documents shown to Mr Trump and President Obama revealed keen Russian interest in Mr Trump’s activities. The information came from a former MI6 agent hired by anti-Trump Republicans to ﬁnd embarrassing material on the tycoon. Many of the sources were Russian and much of the information under discussion was highly sensitive.

The content was so sensitive that only Mr Trump, Mr Obama and eight senior members of Congress were given the summary in their briefings with top intelligence ofﬁcials last week. The document, National Counterintelligence, alleges that Mr Putin has been cultivating Mr Trump for at least ﬁve years and that his campaigns are in contact with Russian ofﬁcials.

The document, National Counterintelligence, alleges that Mr Putin has been cultivating Mr Trump for at least ﬁve years and that his campaigns are in contact with Russian ofﬁcials.

Chump chops with supermarket polenta and roast tomatoes

This is a lovely mix of ﬂavours and textures soft, ﬂeshy spinach- backed, juicy tomatoes and succulent roast tomatoes.

Serves 6 Prep 25 min Cook 20 min

Ingredients: 500g baby spinach; 6 vine tomatoes; 6 lamb chump chops; 1 tsp olive oil; 100g ﬁnely diced parmesan cheese; 2 tbsp 75g butter; 300g 1-tomato polenta; 300g olive oil

Heat the oven to 200C/gas mark 6. Half the tomatoes round their middles and arrange, cut-side up, on a small, foil-lined roasting tin. Toss the tops with olive oil and put in the oven. Boil a large pan of water and put the spinach and the tomato in. Boil for 1 minute. Drain and leave to trim excess fat from the chops. Sizzle both sides in olive oil and put aside. Check the tomatoes: remove excess soft and weeping. Squeeze the spinach to remove excess water. Heat the griddle and when very hot cook 2 seasoned chops at a time for 2-4 minutes a side. Remove to a warmed plate, season and cover with clingﬁlm. When ready to serve, pour 12 litres boiling water into a foil-lined roasting tin. Add a 40-50 tsp salt then add the polenta in a steady stream, immediately reducing the heat until stirring for a minute as it instantly thickens. Stir in the butter, 100g parmesan and then the spinach. Divide between six bowls or serving dishes and add a dollop of crème fraîche, dust with extra parmesan and serve, with the spinach. Boil the tomatoes to remove any excess water, heat and when very

Bosco accussed over handouts

Bosco Homes offered £5,419 in dividends in June 2010 so he did not have a blind investment, claim MPs.

David Cameron sold all his shares in the company to his wife, Samantha, before the Trusts were set up, the Guardian was told. The ﬁnancial regulator could cost the industry £100 million a year, it was claimed, as press freedom campaigners attacked the Bosco’s former MD, David Cameron, was a former MP for Witney, Oxfordshire. He and his wife own a £7m seven-bedroom house in London, and stayed there for £60,000 a year in 2016. The Trusts are controlled by a third party. The trusts are controlled by a third party.

The content was so sensitive that only Mr Trump, Mr Obama and eight senior members of Congress were given the summary in their briefings with top intelligence ofﬁcials last week. The document, National Counterintelligence, alleges that Mr Putin has been cultivating Mr Trump for at least ﬁve years and that his campaigns are in contact with Russian ofﬁcials.

The content was so sensitive that only Mr Trump, Mr Obama and eight senior members of Congress were given the summary in their briefings with top intelligence ofﬁcials last week. The document, National Counterintelligence, alleges that Mr Putin has been cultivating Mr Trump for at least ﬁve years and that his campaigns are in contact with Russian ofﬁcials.

The content was so sensitive that only Mr Trump, Mr Obama and eight senior members of Congress were given the summary in their briefings with top intelligence ofﬁcials last week. The document, National Counterintelligence, alleges that Mr Putin has been cultivating Mr Trump for at least ﬁve years and that his campaigns are in contact with Russian ofﬁcials.